Guiteau Going to Pieces.

The jail officials say that the fact that becomes more apparent every day is that Guiteau is failing mentally and physically. His condition yesterday was startling in the extreme, and forebodes his total smash-up before the 30th. A certain sign of mental and physical disintegration is failure of a person's appetite in a case like this. Guiteau's appetite is failing fast. He has become taciturn and uncommunicative since Lawyer Reid's visit yesterday, and spends his entire time between rising and retiring, lying stretched on his cot, pondering perhaps, on the few intervening days between life and death. That he will surely fail before the hanging day, is the opinion of those who see and know him, and the jail officials will have to carry him to the scaffold and prop him up until the fatal drop falls. Abject fear is taking possession of him, and the assassin will present a pitiable appearance when the penalty is reached. Some are inclined to think that he will go stark mad a few days prior to the event, and the present indications surely point in that direction. One thing is certain and that is that Guiteau will surely sink into a state of abject fear, become seriously sick or wholly crazy before many days elapse.—Washington June 6th.

Opium Smoking in America.

Four thousand is a moderate estimate of the total number of native American victims to the opium habit, and there, it is safe to speculate, consume one hundred grains of the drug a day. This gives a daily consumption of four hundred thousand grains, or about nineteen thousand pounds during the year. About three drams of the smoking opium, equivalent to six drams of the crude drug make the average quota of a day's consumption, and this much costs from fifty to seventy-five cents. Some who go to perpetual excess, however, have been known to consume as much as a pound and a quarter during a day. Taking the average, however, it will be found that the man who hankers after the deleterious and short-lived employment of the drug can gratify that foolish taste only at an expense of two hundred dollars a year, and the combined indulgence of all American opium-smokers will be found to be carried on at a cost of over seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars yearly. And yet this waste is constantly being increased and the ranks of the fools multiplied, notwithstanding that in some States and cities stringent laws, with heavy fines and imprisonment, have been resorted to to stay the hurtful progress of the habit. Arrests are constantly made in San Francisco, under a city ordinance, but, seemingly without avail, and the vigorous legal prohibition of Nevada effects but little, if any, abatement of the evil. The importations of smoking opium into America have steadily increased during the last ten years, and the returns for 1880 show the enormous quantity of seventy-seven thousand one hundred and ninety-six pounds, valued at seven hundred and seventy-three thousand seven hundred and ninety-six dollars, imported, as against thirty-seven thousand eight hundred and twenty-four pounds, valued at three hundred and fifty-three thousand three hundred and thirty-four dollars, sent here in 1871, being an increase of between four and five thousand pounds each year, and this increase not being attributable to the increase of Chinese immigration at that.
